Dear Parents, Grandparents and Carers,

Jackanory Share a Story

This half term our Transdisciplinary Theme is 'How We Express Ourselves'. We are exploring the variety of ways stories can be expressed through reading, writing, dance, drama, role play and music.

It is important that children see the adults around them reading for pleasure, as it encourages them enjoy reading themselves. Therefore to enrich our learning and to help us celebrate storytellers, Miss McMahon and I would like to invite parents and carers to share a short story with Watergate Class

The last ten minutes of every day has been set aside for 'Jackanory Share a Story' and we would love for you to come in and read a story of your choice to Watergate. It could be your child's favourite book, your own childhood favourite, a best seller, a classic comic or text from our selection here at school. We have no doubt the children will thoroughly enjoy and benefit from this experience.

If you are available for the last ten minutes of the day (3:50-4pm) from Wednesday 16th January to 13th February please contact the office.

Yours faithfully,

Miss O'Donoghue
